Jane Doe's Statement

I met with Jane Doe in a private conference room at Davis Senior High School with Ramiz Ali from Yolo County Child Protective Services, in regards to this case. We introduced ourselves to Jane Doe and advised her that she was not in trouble and that we were investigating an incident that occurred on 10/28/07 between her brother John Doe and her father, Dean Johansson. I recorded this interview with my digital recorder. The following is a summary of this contact with Jane Doe. The digital sound file was later downloaded onto the department's secure "P" drive. (Refer to the digital file for further).

Jane was initially reluctant to speak to us because she has been told by her father that she should never speak to the police or CPS. Jane explained that there was an incident when she was twelve years old that involved CPS. She spoke to the CPS worker and this upset her father. I advised Jane that the incident was reported by her friend's parent who was concerned about her and her brother, John Doe. I told Jane that we were following up on that report and wanted to make sure that both of them were not injured and were safe. Jane gave me the following statement in summary:

Jane is an articulate, seventeen year old female who is in her senior year at Davis Senior High School. She lives with her parents, [REDACTED] and Dean Johansson, in Davis, California. [REDACTED]

Jane advised that on the evening of 10/27/07 at approximately 2000 hrs., her father, Dean, and her brother, John Doe, got into an argument that became physical. Jane also advised that her mother, [REDACTED] was present when the incident occurred.

Jane related that John Doe had a television in his room that was taken away by his dad as a punishment for John's behavior. Jane advised that there was an agreement between them that John would get back his television if he finished his community service hours. John Doe told her that he needed assistance bringing his television back into his bedroom. Jane helped John with the television. Jane advised that Dean noticed the television and asked them about it.

Jane was in the room when her dad was talking to John. John was sitting in a chair and working on a computer. John did not look up at Dean when he was talking to him. This angered Dean, so he pulled out the power cord to the computer to get John's full attention. The argument escalated when John continued to be defiant towards Dean or "not moving fast enough." Dean subsequently kicked John "in the chest really hard" while he was seated in the chair. When asked if the kick was accidental, Jane advised it was not. Jane thought that Dean may have had shoes on at the time, but was not sure.

Jane believed John was not on drugs or alcohol that night and neither was Dean. After Dean kicked John, Jane said this "alpha male thing" happened. Jane described it as John taunting Dean to hit him and vice versa. Jane believed John took a swing at Dean, but did not think he connected. Jane related that her dad and John engage in arguments when John gets in trouble. She has heard Dean say in the past that one day he and John would have it out. Jane was not sure if Dean was serious about it. Jane told me that her mother was the one who would deal with John and his issues, but when it didn't work, Dean wanted to "do it his way now."

Jane described her dad as being approximately "six foot" and "big", while John is "five-ten" and "skinny." Jane believed that this incident was "more than about the television." It was more about John's behavior.

Jane said emotions were running high ("passionate") and her dad just "got so mad." Jane did not believe the kick from her dad was "premeditated."

Jane said John did not cry when he got kicked. He just walked out. Jane advised she left with John and they walked downtown looking for friends, but no one was around. Jane said they planned to go back home so John could gather some of his things. Jane was still on good terms with her dad, but John was not allowed back in the home. They arrived back at their residence, but the doors were locked. Jane knocked on the door and was let into the house. Jane later opened the door for John. John was in his room gathering up some belongings, but was discovered by Dean. When Dean found out Jane let John inside, he got angry and told both of them to leave. Jane advised that Dean forcefully grabbed her by the back of the neck as he escorted her down the hall. Jane said she was not injured, but her neck felt sore the next morning. I asked Jane to show me her neck. I did not see any visible injuries or marks.

Jane left and spent the night at the residence in West Davis. She returned home the next day. She did not know where John spent the next four days. She spoke to John briefly on the night he returned. There were no further incidents between John and Dean.

John Doe's Statement

CPS worker Ali Ramiz and I met with John Doe in front of Davis Senior High School, regarding this case. We escorted John to a private conference room at the school where we talked in private. This interview was recorded on my digital recorder and the digital sound file was later downloaded onto the department's secure "P" drive. The following is a summary of this interview. (Refer to the digital file for further).

John is a soft spoken, fifteen year old male, in the tenth grade who is currently on independent study. [REDACTED] John was cooperative and did not appear to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol at the time of this contact. [REDACTED]

We advised John that he was not in trouble and that we were investigating a reported incident that occurred between his father Dean, his sister Jane and himself, on the evening of 10/27/07. John was reluctant to speak to us and wanted to know if his father was in trouble. I told him that his dad was not at this time. I advised him that we wanted to get his side of the story as to what occurred before we spoke to his dad. I advised John that Jane had already given us a statement.

I told John that it was reported to us that he was kicked in the chest by his father. I asked John if I could look at his chest to ascertain if he had any injuries. John complied with my request and lifted up his shirt and exposed his chest area. I did not observe any bruising or other injuries. John told me that his chest hurt for awhile after it occurred and it hurt when he took a breath, but he did not need medical attention. I photographed John's chest area with my digital camera. John later showed me a small laceration (approximately 1/4" in length) across the bridge of his nose. He advised he sustained this injury when he fell against a bedpost in his room during the altercation with Dean. I later photographed this area. These photos were later downloaded onto the department's secure "P" drive.

I asked John to explain what occurred. John told me he was sitting on a chair in front of the computer when his dad Dean kicked him in the chest. John told me Dean did not have any shoes on at the time. John demonstrated to me the way he was kicked by lifting his right foot and forcefully pushing it straight in front of him. It was a kick not a push.

John confirmed that he and Dean had an incident regarding the television. John advised that he did not come home Friday night (10/26/07) because his parents were having a party, so he stayed at his girlfriend's house. He came home at ten the next day. He was grounded by his parents and could not go anywhere. They also took his couch out the night before and they had taken his television away about a year ago. He was supposed to get his television back when he completed his community service hours. John said that he completed those hours. John moved the television back into his room with the help of his sister, Jane. When Dean saw the television, he asked John why it was in there and started "goin' off on me." Dean told him to move it out. Dean left and then came back later and asked John "Why isn't it (the television) gone?" John told him it was heavy. Dean asked John how he got it in the room. John told his dad that Jane helped. Dean then brought Jane to the room.

Dean asked John why he did it. John told me, "I just shook my head and he unplugged the computer...then he kicked me." John advised that Dean did not strike him anywhere else. John stated that he did not strike his dad, "but he wanted me to." John said he was mad at his dad for kicking him. John told me that when he and Dean get mad at each other, Dean wants John to hit him. I asked John "Like egging you on?" and John replied, "Yeah." John advised that this was the first time Dean ever kicked him and that "it took me by surprise." John said he did not hit Dean.

After the altercation, John told Dean the he was "never going to see him again." Dean told him to "go live on the streets." He left the residence and later came back around 2200 hrs. to pick up some belongings. John left during the early morning hours of 10/28/07 and returned on 11/1/07. John said that he had telephone contact with his mother, [REDACTED] during the time he was gone.

I asked John if he felt safe at home since he returned and he replied, "I'm scared of him (Dean), but not all the time..I know he's my dad and that's what dads do." John eventually advised that he did feel safe at home at this time. John advised that Dean had locked up all of his bikes and took away his skateboard as a form of punishment. John advised he and his dad spoke briefly regarding getting his skateboard back, but was respectfully denied that request. He advised that the environment was calm and was not tense.

[REDACTED]

John advised that though this was the first time he was kicked by his dad, his dad does get "physical" with him. When asked if that meant grabbing him and slapping him around, John advised, "Yeah, I'm tired of it." John admitted that when it did occur, there are no marks or bruises left on him.

I explained to John that his father would be contacted and interviewed at a later date. I told him that we would make sure that we investigated this incident thoroughly. I advised John that he could let his parents know that we spoke to him and he was given our business cards. After speaking to John, he left the campus.
